

Algorithm for the feedback system

Since we want to control one motor by using another, so the best way is to make one motor as a master that will control the other motor (Slave), to do that we will read the value of the master motor resistor and move the slave exactly like it.

